I spent $1,000 with doctors and specialists only to prove that I was still as green as ever. A friend advised me to take May's Wonderful Remedy, and I am green no more. My stomach and liver trouble has all disappeared. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal infection from the intestinal tract, and cures the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. A. A. Clarke and druggists everywhere. Advertisement."

What one Woman learned 35 Years ago

Years ago when the first spoonful of Calumet Baking Powder was used, one housewife learned the secret of success on bak-day. She found that what she had thought had luck in the past was really the fault of inferior leaveners.

Over a third of a century has passed since that housewife experienced the perfect results that came from using

CALUMET

The Economy BAKING POWDER

Today millions upon millions have realized the same satisfaction that goes with using a perfect baking powder.

Calumet has more friends than any of the other brands on the market today—women who after one trial found that for uniform, wholesome bakings it has no equal.

Don't forget that a few cents worth of unreliable baking powder can ruin several dollars worth of other ingredients used in baking. Use the best and know what the results will be.

There are so many ways to serve Kellogg's Bran—the one great aid to humanity!

You will enjoy eating Kellogg's Bran because it is the flavor appeals to the taste. And think what each mouthful is doing to drive constipation out of your system and to restore health! That's because it is ALL BRAN. Kellogg's Bran is scientifically made to relieve suffering humanity—IT WILL DO THAT AND NO OTHER FOOD CAN!

Physicians recommend the regular use of Kellogg's Bran for mild or chronic constipation and as a preventive. Bran, eaten each day and in proper quantity, cures constipation and purifies the alimentary tract.

Get a tray from your dealer and eat Kellogg's Bran will give you permanent relief from constipation.

Do not confuse Kellogg's Bran with cereal bran. Kellogg's is cooked, branched and ready to serve. It can be used in the most delightful baking products without in any way reducing its regular value. Try raisin bread or molasses or griddle-cakes made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

Kellogg's Bran is naturally eaten for health's sake as a cereal—in winter time with hot milk. Others prefer it sprinkled over hot or cold cereals. Another way is to mix it with hot cereals just before serving. It can also be cooked with cereal. In each case add two tablespoons of Kellogg's Bran for each person; in cereals cook as usual with each meal.

Kellogg's Bran is sold by all grocers and is supplied in individual packages at American hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant!

Best Lake Record.
All records for the shipment of coal over the New York Central docks at Ashland, Ohio, have been broken during the current lake season. Up to November 8, 60,830 carloads, or 3,118,139 tons of coal, have been transferred from car to vessel over this company's docks, compared with 2,099,001 tons, or 110,900 carloads, in the corresponding period of 1916, up to this year the best on record.

Coke Plant Waste Objectionable.
The City of Morgantown is appealing to the West Virginia State Board of Health, the Public Service Commission and the governor if necessary to force the Duquesne Coke Corporation of Fairmont from turning phenol ingredients into the Monongahela, which causes the city a drinking water to have a peculiar taste. Water is turned into the river after the coke is quenched, it is said.

PRESIDENTIAL ASPIRANTS

"JIM" WATSON

By LAWRENCE MARTIN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Conneltsville, Pa., Dec. 7.—Successful politician in Indiana has to learn the game from many angles.

They are early taught the funda-mentals about there and, after that, they have had the best personal training and improvements they can put on.

Old formulas will doubtless be helpful just so long as the trappings don't obscure the fundamentals.

Senator "Jim" Watson, the records show, was an apt pupil. He got the fundamentals all right, and in his mind that he could practice them with that effortless perfection that bespeaks the artist in any line. Then he ambled and embellished them with a few Watsonisms, all his own and no came eventually to the United States Senate.

Now, one of these fundamentals is that no man is greater than his party.

"My party, right or wrong—my party," is in general sense, pretty much the idea. Watson has proved himself time and again, one of the loyalists of party men. And though ambition may have been kindled, he refused to heed the siren call.

Another thing they teach them in Indiana is that it is a poor politician who can't conduct his own line of the game to fit any given circumstance.

Senator "Jim" Watson.

All of which is by way of saying that if things seem to look black for the Republican organization, at the next convention Senator "Jim" might possibly be persuaded to offer himself as the man to save the party by becoming the Presidential nominee.

That idea might excite, lead to some squabbling, but there are sober-minded men in the Republican party who would see nothing in it to laugh at. Which is why Watson must be counted among the possibilities of the future.

There is a strong note of American-ism permeating the entire message such as the nation expected to be sounded by the present Chief Executive who, in all acts and utterances during his career as a public servant,

has been intensely loyal to our national ideals and institutions. There is an entire absence of vague theories concerning government or our relations to other nations of the earth. He adheres firmly to the long-established

American policies, particularly, "the avoidance of permanent political alliances, which would sacrifice our proper independence, and "the peaceful settlement of controversies between nations." This is the basis of his recommendation in support of the Permanent Court of International Justice. "Which," he urges, "deserves consideration by the Senate with the proposed reservations clearly indicating our refusal to adhere to the League of Nations."

He refuses to yield to the clamor of the interests favoring the cancellation of the debts of foreign nations to us, but sees "no objection to adjusting them in accordance with the principle adopted for the British debt."

Recognizing that "financial stability is the first requisite of sound government," and that "we cannot escape the effect of war conditions," President

Coolidge gives solemn warning that we must "dismantle the harm" of the "economic disorders which have plagued the world" by restoring our government finances to "a secure and sound basis." This, he very determinedly declares, must be accomplished by "orderly retrenchments to bring our expenses within our means." The means, to that end, is the budget system which he tells Congress "must be maintained, and ought to be strengthened by the example of our own example."

President Coolidge commands the million tax-reduction plan to Congress, including the reduction of income taxes, the abolition of the "mischievous" and "unproductive taxes," and "the very great service which can be rendered through the immediate enactment of legislation reducing the people of some of the burden of taxation. To reduce war taxes is to give every home a better chance."

Our country having had a very large export and import trade under the Exporting Protective Tariff with its Republican situation.

But, what you, Watson, won't consider being a candidate for a minute is a complicated thing, or tends to waken the organization. So long as it appeared that President Coolidge might not be opposed for the nomination, Watson was simply not to be considered as a possibility. But with Johnson in and La Follette threatening, with Coolidge in a somewhat doubtful position, some of Watson's industrial and observing friends foresee that he may have to be called on to carry the banner of the conservatives. That is, for all contest Watson could be a candidate without displaying to party unity.

Watson's Mind Keen.

This is admittedly just a possibility.

Should it become more, the country would find an entertaining, jovial and very sharp and well-trained man, with a keen mind, and a humble tongue as one of the contestants for honors.

Watson is a strong believer in the efficiency of a commandy word, a funny story, a slap on the back as means of campaigning. He is, however, well equipped to read the riot act to the opponents as a mass. For individual opponents he has courtesy, even friendliness, which makes him one of the best liked men, personally, by many of those who abhor his political views.

It is not known whether Watson, as a candidate, would revive the good old custom of kissing babies, but it is fairly certain that the insignia of any

Watson-for-President clubs that may be formed will include a picture of "Jim" with his arm around some other chap's shoulder. And if the picture shows Watson laughing heartily, it will be even better. He is one of the most cheerful and cheerful men in politics—a veritable Indiana Polyanth.

How to Help Postal Force During Christmas Rush

Addresses.
Addresses should be complete, with house number and name of street, postoffice box or rural route number, and typed or plainly written in ink. A return address should be placed in the upper left-hand corner of the address side of every piece of mail that you deposit for mailing. If a tag is used the address should be written on the wrapper of the package as well as the tag for use in case the tag is lost. It is always a good idea to have the address on the inside of the parcel.

Postage.
Postage must be fully paid on all mail. Affix the required amount of stamps in the upper right-hand corner. Full information concerning postage rates can be obtained at the parcel-post or stamp window.

Limit of Weight and Size.
No parcel may be more than 34 inches in length and girth combined. For delivery locally and in the first, second and third zones, 70 pounds is the maximum weight; in all other zones, 50 pounds.

Where to Mail Parcels.
Uninsured parcels four ounces or less in weight may be mailed in street letter or package boxes. At all classified stations and branches, and at such numbered stations as are designated to receive parcels. Parcels weighing over four ounces cannot be mailed in street letter boxes, but must be taken to the main postoffice or classified station or branches. Parcels containing meat, food products, flowers, or perishable matter should be mailed only at the main postoffice.

Classified Station No. 1 is located at Hartman's Drug Store, West Side. Classified Station No. 2 is located in Keagy's Drug Store, South Side.

When to Mail Christmas Parcels.
Christmas gifts addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed not later than December 31st; within two days' travel, not later than December 18th; within three days' travel, not later than December 10th; for more distant points, not later than December 14th. Parcels for local delivery should be mailed not later than December 32nd. Parcels may be insured. "Please Do Not Open Until Christmas."

Christmas Stamps and Stickers.
Christmas stamps and stickers of any character must not be placed on the address side of the mail matter. Posters or stickers resembling postage stamps are not permissible on mail matter. Stickers that are placed upon the back or ends of a parcel should be so placed that they do not seal the parcel.

The Pretzel Junior basketball team challenges any junior team in Western Pennsylvania and would like to hear from such teams as Youngwood, Greensburg, Jeannette, Irwin, New Alexandria and Latrobe. The Pretzels have a good floor team and are not down-hearted over the defeat handed them by a strong Greensburg team by a 24-21 score on Thanksgiving. The Scottsdale Intermediates handily beat them 20-18 on Saturday. In both the Pretzels lost out in the last minute of the game. This was due to lack of practice, they say. They are without a game for Christmas and New Year and would like to arrange games around for these two dates. Write Manager W. Stohl, 504 Main street, Mount Pleasant, Pa.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?
Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?
Why cutting and operations fail?
Do you know the cause of piles is internal?
That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?
Do you know that there is a harmless remedy discovered by Dr. Leonard and known as Hem-Roid, now sold by Connelville Drug Co. and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?
Hem-Roid banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record of cure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.—Advertisement.

CURE FOR SEA SICKNESS

Origin of this Game of Mah Jongg Three Thousand Years Ago Told in Chinese Legend.

Some 3,000 years ago, according to the legend, there was a fisherman named Hsu who lived on the shores of the East China lake. Hsu's family had considerable wealth, and they backed him in the purchase of several boats.
Then he employed a hundred fishermen from other villages. All went well until the wind began to blow, for all of the fishermen were "land" fishermen. They became seasick and had to be taken ashore.
A family council was held, and it was decided that someones was necessary to the matter of the wind. Therefore the thing to do was to devise some method for getting the men's minds off their mal de mer. Fisherman Hsu and his brothers then thought long and seriously, and the result was a game which they called Mah Jongg. So there one has the origin of "Mah Jongg," "Mah Choh," "Mah Jong," "Mah Jack," "Pe Ling," "Fung Woo," "Mah Cheuk," or whatever you desire to call this game of the ancient Chinese.

YOUNG WASHINGTON GIRL SEEKS MASTER'S DEGREE

Dorothy Stevens of Washington is the youngest girl that we know who has a bachelor of arts degree. Dorothy is nineteen and was graduated from George Washington university, and is now studying for her master's degree. But Miss Stevens emphatically declares that she doesn't want to be known as a "bookworm," and her friends declare they can't understand "how she does it," for she is rarely seen with "her face in a book" and in the jolliest sort of playmate. Here she is just learning to play mah jong.

Burns Friend's Body To Establish His Own "Death," Then Elopes

By United Press.
NAPA, Cal., Dec. 7.—A remarkable story of how he exhumed the corpse of a friend, burned it in a summer resort cottage under circumstances indicating his own death and then eloped with a stenographer was told yesterday by Edward J. Sallstad of San Claire, Wis.

"I only saw one way and I took it," Sallstad said. Tangled business affairs furnished the motive, he said. He was arrested at St. Helena, near here, yesterday with a woman, who declared she was Dorothy Anderson of San Claire.

Since 1920 Sallstad has been supposed to be dead. Charred bones identified as his were found in a burned cabin in a Wisconsin camp.

Traffic Greater, Rail Earnings Less, I. C. C. Report Says

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Although the railroads of the country handled more freight traffic during the first nine months of 1923 than any previous corresponding period, the reported earnings probably will not amount to more than 3-4 per cent on the face value of the property. It was stated yesterday in the annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The transportation record was made possible by the condition of power and cars, new locomotives and cars placed in service and increases in mileage per car each day, and loading of equipment, the report said. The net railway operating income for 1923 will approximate one billion dollars, the report said.

Advertising Declared Key to Buying Power

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 7.—Advertising is the key to buying power, Thomas H. Moore, associate director of the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, declared here yesterday. Moore came here to address the Pittsburgh Association of Manufacturers' representatives on "Newspaper Advertising."

"I am very optimistic regarding prosperity in 1924," Moore said.

Mail Plane Falls, Pilot's Legs Broken

By United Press.
CASTALIA, Ohio, Dec. 7.—With the control broken, the U. S. mail plane in charge of Pilot Carl Brown, enroute to Chicago from Cleveland, fell to foot in flames yesterday. Brown suffered broken legs and severe burns. Walter Selgwick, station agent of the Lake Erie, who rushed to the flaming plane, saved Brown's life. He suffered slight burns in freeing Brown from the wreckage.

Powers Combine To Check Dr. Sun

Hicks Answers Challenges Made to South Side Preps

Talks Regarding Statements of Hill Top and West Side Organizations.

PLAY SCOTTDAL NEXT

"Eck" Hicks, head coach of the South Side Preps, today denied he was attempting to dodge the issue of playing for a city championship and answered challenges publicly at his team by the Hill Tops and the West Side.

He declared that only since the Preps had acquired a reputation had the city teams become so desirous of playing them. He hinted that the Hill Tops had only become reorganized for the purpose of meeting the Preps in such a game.

Hicks said that his team, prior to being known as the "Preps" had twice defeated the Hill Top aggregation.

Then, he said, when the name "Preps" was taken he again desired a game but was informed the Hill Tops had disbanding. Now, he declared, since his team has acquired a "rep" the Hill Tops want to play, according to the published challenge. Hicks says he has never been approached and "I'm the man that ditches out the games for the Preps," he concluded.

Regarding the West Side he declared that team had spoken of Sunday games when arranging for a clash. "The Preps do not play Sunday football," he said.

The game tomorrow with the Scottsdale Scholastics will probably be the last on the Prep schedule.

The floor, is coming fast, and may make someone step out to hold a job before long. Although his first year in High School Trump was a good junior high player.

The High School girls were scheduled to hold their second floor practice this afternoon. They are in charge of Miss Anne Mellon, who has had very much success with her teams in the past.

Jr. Tornadoes Meet Superior Team Tomorrow

The Junior Tornadoes today completed a week of strenuous practice in preparation for the game tomorrow afternoon with the strong Mount Pleasant Superiors. The team, under the direction of Coach Pittman, is shaping up well, and a light signal drill is scheduled for today.

The preliminary game will be at 1:45 o'clock between the South Side Preps and the Scottsdale Scholastics. The Preps have been working out regularly for the game and expect to be up to their usual standard. A big crowd of rooters is looked for at the clash. It will be the only game in the county.

Coach Yost Won't Retire

Fielding H. Yost, head football coach and director of athletics at Michigan, denies that he has resigned as mentor of the Wolverines. The report that "Hurry Up" had resigned gained wide circulation following his speech at the Michigan Press club convention when he said that the credit for this year's team should go to Assistant Coach Little, Weisman, Starnes and Vich.

Failure in Mathematics Spoils Good Grid Player

A coach explains how he lost a great end—a man whom he expected would become a star.

Sport Notes

The box score will now be securely boxed for the winter.

They say now that Mr. Firpo lacked oxygen. And steam.

Ever is a mad horse and conditions were ripe for him. His rider knows mud, too.

Chick Evans seems to have driven into the financial rough and landed considerably short of the long green.

Tod Sloan, the famous jockey, was the first rider to use the forward crouch position in the saddle, holding the reins close to the bit.

GEORGE SISLER ONE OF YOUNGEST PILOTS

One of Greatest Players Game Has Ever Produced.

George Harold Sisler, star first baseman of the St. Louis Browns, who has just been appointed manager of that club, is one of the youngest pilots of major league ball clubs. He was born at Manchester, Ohio, March 24, 1888.

George Sisler.

A contract to play with the St. Louis Browns, of which team Sisler had become manager.

Although he had no minor league training except a few months' summer ball he indulged in while still in college, Sisler immediately became a regular after joining St. Louis. Sisler was an all-round player; he was a southpaw pitcher, first baseman or outfielder, and played any of those positions efficiently until the season of 1919, when he was stationed permanently at first base. Year after year he was near the top in batting, base stealing and fielding.

This remarkable young man is the exceptional player that bursts forth only once in a decade, who is about as mechanically perfect as is humanly possible. He is a shining example of movement without effort.

He is the smoothest, easiest worker of all ball players, and runs as lightly as a feather wafted through the air. However brilliant a player, there is some doubt as to his ability to manage a big league team. Sisler is what is known as a "dead player." He lacks color, his nature being passive rather than active. He has that detached air, rarely speaking to another player, even a teammate. He never argues with the umpire or protests a decision. Only once during his career has he been banished from the game for disputing a decision by the arbiter.

The spirit and aggressiveness that characterize Ty Cobb are totally absent from Sisler's character. What ever happens on the field of battle, Sisler is quite unmoved. It is hardly likely that he will inspire his men to victory when he himself is so cold so silent. A manager utterly lacking fire and dash is scarcely apt to get the best work out of his players.

What Grid Hero Eats
Some idea of the food the big ten football teams eat may be gleaned from what one team is given. When the Purdue squad, forty strong, came on to Chicago Physical Director Kellogg sent this menu to be prepared during the stay at the Cooper-Carlton hotel. It was as follows:

Breakfast.
Omelet and cream.
Two soft-boiled eggs.
Toast.
Hot tea, coffee or milk.
Luncheon (Before Game).
Cold roast turkey or chicken.
Baked potato.
Hot tea or milk.
Dinner (After Game).
Soup.
Catsup and olives.
Fruit salad.
Snick.
Icing.
Tea, coffee or milk.

Governor Appeals for Near East Relief Fund

Governor Pinchot has issued the following appeal in behalf of Near East relief.

"Tens of thousands of little children today are facing death in Bible lands. When persecutions, deportation and massacres were at their height, it was not so difficult for Near East Relief to secure funds. Every one who read the newspapers knew of the terrible need. But during the last ten months, the situation has not been before the people, and funds have been coming in very slowly—so slowly, in fact, that it has created the greatest danger in the history of the organization.

"From the wreckage of the Christiana races in that section of the world, Near East Relief has salvaged 50,000 children whom it is feeding and clothing, and to whom it is giving a Christian education and training.

"The Syrian disaster forced this organization to take food literally from the mouths of these children to feed 1,000,000 refugees.

"Contributions must come in at once or Near East Relief will have to turn out some of these boys and girls. There are 95,000 hungry and homeless children outside the orphanages whom Near East Relief cannot help because it has no funds.

"Christmas is coming. It is the season of childhood joys. When you are planning gifts for those near to you, won't you give some thought to the cries of hunger and pleadings of these little ones? It will mean a literal death sentence in thousands if the orphanages close.

"Five dollars a month will save a child! Will you not save at least one boy or girl from starvation?"

"In the name of these little children, I ask your help."

Engineers Are Preparing for War In Time of Peace

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—American engineers and industrialists are aiding in the solution of the vast production problems arising from the War Department's developing program, Captain W. E. Churchill, U. S. A., said here today at a session of the Ordnance Division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. "The burden of preparedness," he declared, "rests not alone upon the War Department, but also upon the manufacturers of the country. With the cooperation such a preparedness program can be developed as to make it very inadvisable for any enemy to draw the United States into a war, or, if war is forced upon us, a program that will lead to an earlier and more complete victory." Studies are now being made of the questions of exemption from military service and supply of raw materials, according to Captain Churchill, attached to the New York District Ordnance office, who added: "The exemption of certain individuals and groups of skilled mechanics from military service is one that demands careful consideration and the development of plans that will retain for war industries the essential workers without doing injustice to the fighters for hampering the armed forces of the country. Some definite, prearranged method of assuring necessary labor for the production of war material and civilian requirements must be determined. The women of the country and the physically unfit and exempted men must carry on the industries without interruption, so far as possible. "Another great study that confronts the War Department is the supply of raw materials. A group of experts is working on the problem of assuring the supply of strategic raw materials that must be imported, endeavoring to find satisfactory substitutes of formulating plans to keep the sea lanes open. "The extent to which this country will be prepared to meet any emergency that might arise depends to a great extent upon the industries of the country and upon the engineers within those industries. If the local branches of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and of other engineering bodies would devote meetings to the problems of the districts in which they are located, and would continue into their plants the industrial preparedness plans that are being perfected up to their front doors by the War Department, this country of ours would be carrying such a strong insurance policy against war that no enemy or combination of enemies would dare to attack us."

Thanksgiving Day Made Cut Of 10,780 Tons in Production; Total Lowest of 1923 to Date

Reduction 50 Per Cent Heavier Than in Corresponding Week of Preceding Year.

MORE FURNACE OVENS IN

Merchants Make Further But Slight Cut in Their Active List; Better Feeling Prevails but General Disposition Is to Wait Patiently.

From The Weekly Courier.

The recurrence of Thanksgiving Day provided an opportunity for the operators of the Connellsville Region to effect a further curtailment in production by the very simple expedient of making it a day-off day. This and the fact that a very considerable number of plants, most of which were of the leading furnace-iron, took an additional day, caused a reduction of 10,780 tons, to a total of 174,170 tons as the combined output of the region last week.

That the reduction in production due to the holiday was about 50 per cent greater than the loss of 7,350 tons during the corresponding week of 1933, is a pretty fair index of the difference in trade conditions of the respective periods, rather than an indication that the day was more generally observed than a year ago. In 1933 there was the incentive of a growing demand for coke to cause the operators to hold the loss incident to a one day's idleness of plants to as small a tonnage as possible. This year this incentive was lacking so the holiday was, in a measure, welcomed. The result was that the holiday decrease brought the week's total to a new low point for the year to date.

The furnace interests having the larger number of plants and almost twice as many ovens in blast as the merchants, it was but natural that the loss in production by the former through observance of Thanksgiving Day was 7,400 tons as compared with 3,380 tons by the latter. The firing up of 235 independent furnace ovens did not materially affect the result as they did not come to full operation during the week. Likewise the blowing out of 35 merchant ovens did not appreciably change the total.

While there continues to be a better feeling in the region with respect to future prospects, no one is unduly sanguine as to the probability of an early change. The end of the year is approaching so closely that the best that can be expected is for the situation to maintain its status quo. It is conceded that the bottom has been reached in prices and that the next development must be in the nature of an upward swing. With the supply of coke in now so precisely adjusted to consumptive requirements, a buying movement involving any considerable tonnage would be certain to cause advance in prices. Conversely, a decrease in output of coke would have the very decided tendency of causing a softening in prices, while the accumulation of even a moderate surplus would be quickly followed by a recession from the present price level.

Producers are giving careful consideration to these elements in the situation and are quite content to exercise the virtue of patience while the period of year-end quietness in industry prevails, meantime holding themselves in readiness to take advantage of any favoring change.

The estimated production of coke during the week ended Saturday, December 1, was 174,170 tons, contributed by the two districts as follows: Connellsville, 105,340, a decrease of 8,000 tons; Lower Connellsville, 68,830, a decrease of 4,590 tons, or a total decrease of 12,590 tons, as compared with a net gain of 8,190 tons during the preceding week.

By interests the production was: Furnace, 111,900, a loss of 7,400 tons; merchant, 62,270, a loss of 3,380 tons; as compared with a gain of 8,190 and a loss of 10 tons respectively during the week ended November 24.

The net gain of 201 in the number of ovens in blast was the difference between 235 fired at an independent furnace plant and 35 blown out at merchant plants. The H. C. Fryck Coke Company made no change in its oven list. Of its 35 active plants 35 were run five days and 10 run four days.

Production by the two interests and the total compared with the corresponding week in 1933 is shown here-with:

WOULD PROTECT AMERICAN EAGLE

Association Wants Slaughter of Birds Stopped.

25,000 WERE SLAIN IN ALASKA

With a bounty of fifty cents on eagles in Alaska, the American Nature association, with headquarters at Washington, calls on the American people to protect against the slaughter of the American eagle. The association tells the people that the national emblem is the eagle, and that the eagle is being slaughtered in Alaska due to the action of the legislature there, which passed the law offering fifty cents for each one killed. The law provides that when an eagle is killed, the hunter may get his money by cutting both feet from the bird and exhibiting them to any commissioner of Alaska, with an affidavit.

Asks Schools to Save Birds.
School principals are requested to write for the association's bulletin on the American eagle for reading in the schools and urge that each class file a protest against the destruction of this famous bird.

"The easiest place to see an American eagle is on your money and that will be the only place if the slaughter of this bird is kept up," says the American Nature association's call. "No longer do the tourists to Alaska, see these emblems of American liberty float above the forests and shore lines."

"From 1917 to 1927, 98,000 eagle feet, out from 18,000 birds, have been checked and accounted for on the bounty records," says the statement in Nature Magazine. "Some were wound and not caught. Many have fallen into inaccessible places where they could not be reached. A large number have been shot for sport by people who have not collected the bounties.

25,000 Eagles Slaughtered
It seems safe to say that instead of 18,000 approximately 25,000 American eagles have been killed since the campaign began. Think of it! Enough eagles to carpet a trail over 33 miles long if the wings were spread and the legs touching. This means about 150 tons of eagles fell before Alaskan hunters.

"At certain seasons of the year fish in Alaska are abundant and the bald eagle undoubtedly lives largely on salmon, but it is a well known fact that salmon dies after spawning. The banks of streams are at times lined with the bodies of spawned-out fish which are carried away and eaten by these birds."

Eagle is Our Symbol of Courage.

"The eagle stands firm before every further power except the hand of man," the American Nature association points out. He is our symbol of courage, our emblem of freedom. In mythological times the eagle rested at the side of Jove, as the symbol of strength and power. The eagle was borne on Roman standards. France, under the Bonapartes; Austria, Prussia and Russia have used the eagle as a national bird. On June 30, 1783, the venerable white-headed bird of Washington, beloved by Americans, was adopted as the emblem of our country. Are the American people to be represented by a defunct species? Did our forefathers make a mistake?

"With this recorded slaughter of 18,000 eagles Alaskans may be sure there are not enough left to affect their supply of fish and game. The war on eagles should be discontinued before the last emblem of the American people is laid low. Is the American people to be exterminated without thought of investigation? Is it to be weighed in the scales of commercialism alone? Is there not a strong sentiment in the minds of the American people for this bird? Thousands of American eagles shot down at the price of fifty cents each!"

"Grant the eagles of Alaska do diminish the salmon crop by a few cases. As a symbol of liberty should they not live with the Stars and Stripes?"

FIRST WOMAN TO RIDE IN CLASSIC

Miss Betty Tanner mounted on "Fennant," riding in the historic four-mile Teva Plate steeplechase at Newmarket, a race established in 1805 by King Charles II—the first time a woman ever rode in a "steeple" race in England, probably in the world. Miss Tanner finished third, but critics agreed that she rode a great race, her horse being handicapped by 40 pounds of lead in the saddle pockets. Miss Tanner, who is twenty-seven years old, is known as a daring and skilful horsewoman and at present is managing a stud of 18 thoroughbreds at Newmarket, where her father, Capt. Ernest Tanner, is also well known as a breeder and owner of race horses.

"THE SPEED KING," starring Richard Talmadge, is the feature attraction today and tomorrow at this theatre. The trouble with the average peace conference is that everybody wants the biggest piece. Even countries too small to have their names on the map are trying to mark off golf courses on rival kingdoms. The biggest Balkan state was Belmaria, and the Belmarians had convinced themselves that they could not exist and intended acquiring at any cost that part of Mandavia east of the Elma River. Their statesmen had placed the proposed land grab before King Charles of Mandavia, only to be met with a flat refusal. The king, ably seconded by General Mandoli, absolutely refused to deprive the Mandavians of that territory of their country and liberty. One of Mandavia's best soldiers was Rodolfo D'Henri. He had sold out his country to Belmaria and was doing his utmost to complete negotiations for the territory in question. On being met with King Charles' firm decision he disclosed a daring plan to be used as a last resort. In America Jimmy Martin was just being crowned "The Speed King" by the racing public, having won the championship motorcycle race. Among the spectators of the race were two of D'Henri's emissaries, sent to America to interview Jimmy because of his striking resemblance to King Charles, all a part of D'Henri's plot. See the picture for the rest.

The Soisson

"WHERE THE NORTH BEGINS" featuring Rin-Tin-Tin, the famous police dog, provides splendid entertainment today and tomorrow at this theatre.

"Where the North Begins" is a story of two men's fight to gain possession of a girl's heart, the one by true love, the other by guile and brute strength.

It is a fast-moving tale of the frozen north, told amid tall pine and reaching stretches of snowy waste, along which range a gag of outlaws responsible for the lives of half a dozen traders.

Rin-Tin-Tin, the famed police dog, is the pivot around which much of the tense action revolves. As a dog bred among the wolves from puppyhood, he comes on the scene in time to find Gabriel Dupre, the trapper, left for dead by the outlaws; his first impulse is to attack the wounded man, but his second is to befriend the victim. Later, he helps further the romance and thwart the well-planned intrigue by which Shad Galloway, the factor of the camp, hopes to do away with Gabriel and appropriate Falee McFarrish to himself.

A fine cast of players has been assembled for the roles: Claire Adams, Walter McGrail, Pat Hartigan, Myrtle Owen, Charles Stevens and Fred Hunter.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, "Trilby" will be the feature attraction.

The Orpheum

"HELD TO ANSWER," on view today and tomorrow at this theatre, presents House Peters in the leading role. A story decidedly out of the ordinary is dramatically told in "Held to Answer," the Metro-Premier feature. Peter Clark McParlane, one of the best-known authors of the day, has never written anything more thrilling or exciting than this drama of a fighting minister, an actress and the criminal courts. He has taken as his central character a young actor who desert the stage to preach the word of God and serve humanity in a small western city. An actress friend follows him and, through jealousy, manages to have him accused of theft. Mr. McParlane has woven a tale that holds one spellbound. It is no wonder that the novel enjoyed the largest sale of any book ever published in America and it is said that the motion picture version is even more absorbing and thrilling. The director, Harold Shaw, having caught the spirit of the story and brought to life the characters outlined in the author's story. The cast includes House Peters, Grace Carlyle, John Halpin, Evelyn Brent, James Morrison, Lydia Knott and "Bull" Montana.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, "Where The Pavement Ends" will be shown.

My Rosy Skin

How I clean it—how I preserve it
By Edna Wallace Hopper

My skin is the marvel of millions. Even softer and more rosy than 40 years ago. Yet mine is a grandmother's age.
Mine has been no easy life. I have lived it in the limelight. I served France five years in the rigors of the war. Yet countless young girls envy my complexion. I can easily pass for 19.
France gave me the methods I employ. Now, in gratitude, I am applying them to others. They multiplied my beauty, gave me personal youth. Now I hope to bring to millions the benefits I got.

How I keep clean.
The first step to beauty is a clean skin—a skin that is clean to the depths. Lucile Lantelme, a famous Parisian beauty, taught me how to get it.

The method is a liquid cleanser. I call it my Facial Youth. It contains no animal, no vegetable, fat. So it cannot grow hair on the face. It cannot assault the skin with the skin. But it penetrates every pore. When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime, all that clogs the skin comes with it.

You may think you clean your skin without it, but you don't. Apply Facial Youth to what you call a clean skin and see the extra dirt you get. That is what causes blackheads and blemishes.

I cover my body with Facial Youth before bathing. Thus I remove three times the refuse I remove without it. Nothing to compare.
My Facial Youth is the greatest cleansing formula science has created. The greatest beauty experts now employ it. Some supply it to others, but at four times my price.

I bring it to you at a modest price, and I urge you to employ it. You will find nothing to approach it. A fine complexion is impossible unless the skin is clean.
Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters at 75 cents per bottle. Also my Youth-Cream—my fruit cold cream. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Take this first step to beauty now. Clean the skin with my Facial Youth. The immediate results will amaze you. Then, if you wish my other aids, they are at your call. Edna Wallace Hopper, Business address, Waukegan, Wis.

Despite their protests, she did come down to dinner and played bridge furiously all the evening. It was her last night out, she told them, and the only thing in the world she dreaded was going to bed. Doctor Brown could make her do it, but nobody else could. And, indeed, when she knocked on Alice's door, about five in the morning, she was not undressed beyond a negligee, nor had she lain in her bed. She was beaten by then. While hearing what Joe might do in his rage at being disappointed she resolved to go back to John. And so she told Alice that she must take the first train back to Chicago.

She gave John, who met her in the LaSalle Street station at seven o'clock the next morning, the most electrifying surprise he had experienced since she had told him, twenty years before, that she would marry him. The sort of hug and kiss she bestowed upon him on the platform was unusual enough, but nothing to what followed. She made light of her illness as they walked through the station to the car in which he'd driven down from Lake Forest to meet her. She had a silly attack of the gutters, had got over it, and had come home as quickly as she could to reassure him that she was all right. He'd have found this rather hard to believe had not her looks completely borne her out.

After they were seated in the car, with the chauffeur waiting to be told where they wanted to go, he asked her—jocularly, so that it would be easy to refuse—if she'd like to have breakfast at the club with him before she drove home.

"Can't you come home to breakfast with me, John?" she asked. "Just for the ride and the visit." And behind Johnny's mustache, back as they rolled up Sheridan road, she sat close to him and held his hand.

Three or four miles from home he told her he had Margaret out there to look after her and save things off that she might want to bother with. "That's all right if she doesn't stave you off," Violet said, with a small nervous laugh.

"As long as she's there," she went on a moment later, "I think I'll tell you something now. Because she makes it hard, somehow—this is what I meant just now—for me to talk to you. Well, that's all it is, really. I don't want you—stayed off John, by anybody. I don't want to be—let alone. To go my own way. That sort of thing. I know I've made you think I did. That's a trick most women have, I guess. But they don't mean it. At least I don't. Not any more. I'd like to have you with me—all the time. Day and night."

He looked at her gravely; almost— if that had been possible for John— suspiciously. "Violet," he asked, "have you been frightened by anything? Or anybody? Are you afraid of anything now?"

She met his look steadily. "There isn't a thing. There's only one thing. And that is that some day you may get tired of me." At the look this drew from him she uttered a sobbing laugh and flung herself upon him. "It isn't a night watchman I want you for," she said.

CHAPTER IX

Below the Falls. From the sixth of October, when Joe telegraphed Jennie for information on the totals of the drafts that were coming in, his office heard no word of him until within a week of the expiration of Williamson's offer. It was an anxious time for Jennie, saved from being desperate only by a continual asseveration of her faith that Joe would turn up in time, bringing some sort of means of salvation with him.

But on Tuesday, the second of November, just as she was getting ready to leave the office at the end of the afternoon, a boy from the Stratford hotel brought her a note written in lead-pencil, in a hand so little like Joe's that momentarily she doubted the signature. It asked her simply to come up and see him as soon as she could, telling her the number of the room he was in. He had scribbled the words, "It's all right," after signing, but this she took as referring merely to the propriety of her visit.

With a heart-sickening premonition that everything that mattered had utterly gone wrong, she went along with the bellboy to the hotel and had him show her up to Joe's room.

He called in answer to her knock, "Come in, Jennie, if that's you."

It was then nearly six o'clock, fully dark long since out-of-doors, yet his room was lighted save by a small night-lamp upon the bed-stand. Joe, all alone, was sitting in an easy chair that had been drawn up to one of the windows, a rug across his knees. He looked round at her and nodded toward another chair that shared the stove-heat, but made no other move. It was all she could do not to weep. It did not seem possible that the six weeks since she had last seen him, in Fargo, could have made such devastating changes in the man she knew. He was shrunken, chilly—huddled under his rug; the hand he finally offered her was slack and his voice spiritless, despite the pitiable effort he made at his familiar manner. She stood speechless, holding the limp hand he had given her in both her own. "Oh, let's get it over with," he exclaimed at last. "Sit down. You want to know what's happened, I suppose. I'm licked—that's the short of it."

"You're sick," she retorted. "That's the main trouble."

"See that in the dark, can you?" he asked, with a drawn grin. "Well, you're wrong. What you have only a by-product of the biggest dread I ever had, I guess it must have been. I wasn't there, except at the start, till after it was all over, but that's my best judgment on it."

"Celebrating something, were you?" she asked, keeping back the tears.

"You might say I was, in a way. It wasn't over—having sold our fax, though, now borrowed the money to pay for it. Not a pound nor a dollar. But celebration isn't a bad word for it, at that."

"They're really beaten us, then, heather, Joe?"

There was a long-stretched silence. "It wasn't they that beat me," he said at last. "They couldn't have done it. It was the other thing—I guess you know that, don't you? Didn't you see anything queer when you came up to Fargo in September? Not about them; about me?"

She nodded. "Whisky, you mean?"

Then slowly and carefully Joe told how things had seemed about to break right for him in New York, only at the last moment he had taken a drink and that had led to a big drink, at the end of which he found himself in Bellevue.

When he became master of himself again he had wired Doctor Bennett, who had gone east and brought him back to Chicago. He wound up by admitting that he had reached the end of his physical and mental powers and that Jennie would have to take his power of attorney and endeavor to save what she could out of the wreck.

He wound up, "You'll just have to do the best you can, Jennie. I'm through. For this round, at least."

She caught, eagerly at the hint in that last phrase. Doctor Bennett, she supposed, had the cure in charge.

Ford Four-Door Sedan

$685 b.b. fully equipped.

Inside and out, the new Ford Four-door Sedan shows improvements of far more than usual importance.

It is lower and sturdier in appearance. New cowl, hood, radiator and apron add size and finish to the front. Sun visor, and wide, well-finished aluminum doors with bar handles perfect the design of the body.

The lasting lustre of the exterior finish is equalled in richness by the soft brown shades of the silk window curtains and the deep broadcloth upholstery.

Doors, light, door locks, window regulators and handles, all finished in nickel, complete a refinement you would expect only at a far higher price.

Convenience, utility and economy have established Ford supremacy. The Four-Door Sedan adds to these factors greater Ford prestige.

Velvet, Satin and Chiffon Are Good

Seasonable Fabrics Must Express Style, Elegance and Luxury.

A wealth of fabrics offers inspiration to the artists of Paris and America this season in the creation of fine garments, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times. Not in many years has there been such richness of beauty in color and in variety of pattern, and the designer's fancy can take long flights. Little imagination is needed, indeed, to combine the splendid textures: the satins and the velvets of beautiful texture and sheen, the laces of gold or silver, with the fine, the unbreakable and the jeweled accessories that complete the smart costume.

The whole scheme is an extravagant one this year, though the lines are straighter and trimmer, in less than is former seasons. The coat, mounted in the latest line of material and in following the modern idea of luxury in detail, becomes suitable for the most elaborate gown and wraps are quite commonly used as a lining, and the inside of a garment is likely to be as attractive as the outside. The softer silks and chiffons are lined with velvet or fur or metal brocade, and a wrap of plain material is built to disclose something most lovely on the reverse side. Round for the athletic woman, there need be no serviceable clothes. Everything is dainty, often portable.

Good means for utility are sometimes in fabrics or so formally elaborate that it is impossible to find the just where in the wardrobe of a fashionable woman they belong. No body sweaters, vests, homages or will or serge or, for that matter, anything "manly," except for morning, for shopping or for a cross-country hike.

To be strictly up to date, one must wear velvet or satin or chiffon; anything else expresses style and beauty and, better, especially luxury. The salesman in a smart shop asks you "evening" for an afternoon gown of chiffon and satin, fur-trimmed, with as much richness as a while ago she had considered of that sum.

Regalia is important. The negligee is now a compelling feature of the "evening" season. It has been growing in importance, its freedom and grace of line charmingly expressed in the new materials. Some of the newest negligees are shown in the new metal brocade, and some beautiful models are done in metal lace. A stunning model of blue and silver in a large orchid pattern is cut in two straight panels that hang like a cascade from the neck to the instep. The back width is longer than the front, reaching the floor. These are made loosely at the sides with silver cords, the opening showing a softly plumed underwire of gold blue chives, of which the full "blouse" sleeves are formed. The sleeves are caught snug at the wrist with a cord and tassels of silver.

The most popular models among the new negligees are those made of one material and those, of course, because of their simplicity, are the most comfortable. Nothing could be more engaging than a negligee of soft lustrous charmeuse in the style of a one-piece evening gown, half-fitting princess, the material in a delicate shade of orchid, trimmed all about the bottom, around the wide flaring sleeves and across the square neck at the back with marabou in deep blue-violet. Marabou is much used by modistes for trimming negligees. It is so dainty and becoming.

In a striking new model the latest weaves in all-over gold lace is effectively used. The foundation of the negligee is of ivory satin, cut in an evening princess style, instep-length, all trimmed. Over this is a loose and somewhat circular robe of gold lace that falls straight in front, opening at the knee, and forming at the back a train, several inches on the floor, like a large
